I leave this place in an hour; but I think it due to both of us, that you should become informed of the motives which govern my actions. When we have dined, therefore, I will relate to you the occurrences of my past life that you may be enabled to form a correct opinion of my present determination. I have undertaken an uapleasant task, but I shall not shrink from it. Our dinner passed off heavily enough. When the cloth was removed, and we were alone, Sturmwald filled a large tumbler of wine, drained it, passed the rhenish to me, and thus began. I am the only remaining descendant of one of the oldest, proudest, and I may add, poorest families in Poland. An only son, brought up in an old, secluded, dilapidated castle, surrounded by serfs alone, to whom my will was law,...
