In my judgment, according to the proper construction of this clause, its words only relate to things which have existence on the farm--to things only which can be dealt with actively or left passively for the benefit of the farm. The covenant to stack, to consume, and so on, relates only to such crops as are capable of being so dealt with. It is, according to my understanding, only a regulation of acts of husbandry when the state of things is such that the acts are capable of being done, and if no such acts can be done the clause has no application. In my opinion the county court judge was right. Eomee and Stibling, L. JJ., concurred. Appeal dismissed. Solicitors, Upton Britton; Collyer-Bristow Co., for Wood Awdry, Chippenham. Appeal.)
